Summary

- Today I started with finishing my write up. I updated it with more accurate information. I gave more indepth steps to my solutions and provided pseudocode for all the decryption methods.
- I started working on the spider challenge for the cyber ctf. I was able to learn and get past most of the anti debugging tricks but I am stuck at trying to get the flag.
- I think I found the general area to find the flag but I am not sure how it is generated. I just know that some interesting things are happening.
- I am happy to have got past the anti-debugging because it is something I have wanted to learn.
